GERANIUMS

SPRING and SUMMER 1951

HOW TO GROW GERANIUMS

GERANIUMS OUTDOORS

Soil: Any garden soil that will grow common annual or perennial plants will grow Geraniums. If the soil is too rich, Geraniums produce soft, leggy branches, dense foliage and a scarcity of bloom. If the soil is too poor, they produce pale foliage and small blooms. Ideal soil is slightly acid (about pH 6.5), 3 parts clay loam, 1 part coarse sand, and 1 part organic matter.

Sun: Geraniums require a lot of sunshine, yet, if at all possible, they should be shaded during the hottest part of the day to produce the best flowers. Geraniums will not do well in complete shade.

Water: When the soil appears dry, soak to a depth of at least 6 inches. It is much better to soak the ground once or twice a week than to sprinkle the soil every day. Always water early enough in the day so that the foliage will be dry by night.

Space: For beautiful beds allow only 8 inches in all directions for spreading. Pinch the tops of each plant to promote branching.

Fertilizer: Bonemeal is excellent; mix in a liberal amount while preparing your soil. For additional feeding we recommend Plant Marvel.

Geraniums growing outdoors will drop most of their foliage if dug and potted for inside use during the winter. It is better to take cuttings from the older plants and start with fresh plants for indoor growing. Take cuttings, anytime, 4 to 6 inches long from strong branches that have leaves growing close together. Remove the leaves far enough up the stem to allow the cutting to stand upright when placed in moist sand. This sand should be about 4 inches deep in a box placed in a sunny spot. Cut a narrow trench in the sand and stick the cuttings to a depth of about 2 inches, then pat the sand firmly. Keep the sand moist; roots should appear in 3 weeks.

GERANIUMS INDOORS

Soil: Mix together 3 parts good garden soil and 1 part peat moss, pack dirt firmly around plants. Have the soil moist, but not wet, when potting.

Containers: Clay pots are the best. Do not use too large a pot for Geraniums, they bloom best when a little pot bound, it is better to repot the plants, increasing the size pot each time. Leave at least $\frac{1}{2}$ inch of space at the top of each pot for watering, leave more room for larger containers. Always have good drainage.

Sun: To bloom indoors, Geraniums must have direct sun. Place them as close to the glass as possible.

Water: Do not allow the soil to become water-logged or soggy. Once a week, especially on a sunny day, soak the plant. The rest of the time only enough to keep it from drying out.

Feeding: Do not feed unless the plants have stopped growing or the foliage is too pale. Use any good fertilizer. If you use Vigoro, put a small pinch on top of the soil before watering the plants. We like to use Plant Marvel—it is completely soluble in water. Do not over-feed—Geraniums do not require heavy fertilization.

Geraniums grown indoors during the winter may be planted outside in the spring, after the danger of frost is past.

GERANIUM GROWERS SINCE 1919

ROACHDALE, INDIANA

TELEPHONE 15 on 209

Fellow Flower Grower:

We want to thank you personally, along with many other good people, for making our organization what it is today. May we tell you a little bit about it?

As with many of our great firms, Wilson Brothers had an humble beginning. Shortly after World War I, Mr. Cully Wilson started in business with just a few hot-beds like many of us build in our back yard.

He had an idea that you'd like the Geranium to decorate and make your home surroundings more beautiful. Mr. Wilson was right! Since then he has devoted his life to producing and growing higher quality and better-blooming Geraniums.

Of course, your acceptance has meant expansion. These hot-beds grew into a greenhouse. Over the years one greenhouse after another has been built until now we have thirteen. They cover just about an acre of ground and produce approximately one million plants per year.

Again we would like to thank you for the business you have been kind enough to send our way -- and to remind you of our policy of Service, Quality, and Satisfaction.

Very truly yours,

WILSON BROS.

How to Grow African Violets

For success and fairly constant bloom on your Saintpaulias, follow this brief but tested program. Really, they're very easily grown!

Location: Place in north or east windows during the summer months. They thrive on fresh air and light. Avoid direct sunshine. Shaded porch is ideal.

During the winter months, place in sunny windows, shield your plants from the direct sun rays by your curtains or venetian blinds.

Watering: Never water with cold water. Let the water stand until it reaches room temperature. Then water, in a saucer, from the bottom every morning. Take care only to give your violets the amount they will absorb by early afternoon.

Temperature: Ideal temperature is that which we prefer, 70° to 72°F. Don't let the night temperature fall below 60°.

If the air is dry, make provisions for humidity. Place water in a container near your heating unit. Both you and your plants will benefit.

Cleansing: Give your plants the "weekly Saturday bath." This may be done by spraying foliage with your plant syringe. Be sure the water used is room temperature. If it's much cooler or warmer, leaf spotting and crown-rotting may result.

Soil: A good potting mixture contains two parts loam soil and one part each of rotted manure, peat, and sand. Another good mixture is one part garden soil, one part leaf mold; add enough sand to make a loose mixture.

Sterilize your soil and pots before using. Moisten the soil thoroughly. Then bake in your oven at 180° for 30 minutes. Dip the rims of your clean pots ¼ inch deep in melted parafin. This prevents rot due to leaf stems resting on edge of pots.

Fertilizer: If a good potting soil is used, little fertilizer will be required. However, your plants need food. We use, and highly recommend Plant Marvel.

Disease and Pest Control: It's easier to prevent than cure. Spray your plants every month or so with a good deterrent such as Black Leaf 40, N.N.O.R. or Optox. These may be purchased from your local druggist or florist. Use according to directions.

For classification of varieties, and complete scientific treatment of your plants, we can't praise too highly this book—
